Sickle cell disease requires a dedicated focus and highly specialized expertise, and that is exactly what we offer.

Our compassionate, multidisciplinary team—including a hematologist, physician assistant, nurse, medical assistant, social worker and care coordinator—works together to support you. We'll coordinate your care, answer questions, help manage any complications and provide emotional support and connections to resources, guiding you through every step. We'll also connect you with other Northwell specialists and services throughout the region.
